Forward to Dr Yoshifumi Harada's Palmistry
By Murray Hunter

It's both a privilege and sadness I write the forward to the book Yoshifumi always wanted to publish. I first saw Dr Harada in the classroom after a lecture reading the palms of his students, who had so much delight being given some glimpse of their potential destiny.

I quickly offered to help him write a book chapter by chapter, and Thanos at OVI Magazine was excited to post them every week. Over a two-year period, we sat down and Dr Harada told me about his concepts and applications of palm reading. I would reflect these ideas back to him, and the end product was a satisfying chapter each week. He would always take me out for a sushi lunch afterwards.

I guess the first paragraph of his first article summed up his passion.

Greetings to all. My name is Dr. Harada and I have this wonderful gift that I want to share with you, the gift of being able to read one's palm. It's an exciting gift that if used correctly can be a guiding light for you. Before I start looking at individual lines and the significance to our daily lives, I want to go through a couple of important issues which you should always keep in mind while are reading my future columns.

Over our sushi and coke one day, we decided to call the project "Quantum Palmistry". This was because what might be read today, may have different meanings and change the next day. Palmistry is both reflective and projective of a person's life. Thus, what one read was never static.

This he tried to project this in these chapters which are now compiled into this book.

The second thing Dr Harada tried to incorporate into the book, were applications to life in general. Thus, much of the book can be considered some general life advice.

Dr Harada studied the subject very seriously, and practiced it at every opportunity. He always qualified the readings stating your future is not yet settled. You as an individual have power over the future by the choices you make.

Finally, the reason I am sad is because Dr Harada passed away after an illness in Japan very quietly. May this book be a testament to his contribution to palmistry and the people he interconnected with.

INTRODUCTION TO PALMISTRY:

Help is only a hand away –
we are the hand that guides us.

Greetings to all. My name is Dr. Harada and I have this wonderful gift that I want to share with you, the gift of being able to read one's palm. It's an exciting gift that if used correctly can be a guiding light for you. Before I start looking at individual lines and the significance to our daily lives, I want to go through a couple of important issues which you should always keep in mind while are reading my future columns.

The first thing to always remember is that the lines on your hand are NOT set in concrete. Consequently your destiny is not yet decided. Anything that you read from your palms is only a potential future that you CAN change if you have the desire and believe in yourself. So reading the palm gives you an indication of where you are heading if all things stay the same. This is a great warning system we have. Your hand is like the speedometer in your car – if you are going too fast, slow down. If you are going to slow speed up so you don't miss the opportunity coming by.

Always remember the lines on your are reflective of our current health, occupation, i.e., a nurse's hands are vastly different to a mechanic's, and the environment you live in, i.e., agricultural, professional, blue collar, and stressful etc. Thus the hand represents your past in these ways and through reading your palm in the present connects you to a possible future. You are the one that will accept or reject it, by taking the necessary actions you have to take in your life. So, in this way there is nothing esoteric or magic in the science of palm reading, it's just simply reflective on who and what we are.

The reality is that we make our own life and the lines on our hand are reflective upon the life we have made. They reflect the consequences of what you have been doing. Thus the lines on our hand are mutually reflective of each other – a type of hologram into our inner self. If you think positively your lines on your hand will become very clear. If you worry, are a pessimistic, or anxious person, then you will find the lines on your hand will become very complex and messy. Yes, the lines on our hand do change over time as we progress through life. In this way palmistry can be very indicative of your state of mind. That's why monkeys only have two lines on their hands – they don't worry much.

Each week, I'm going to pick a line and describe its significance to your life. So let's take this journey together using the wisdom of this ancient art of palmistry.

Let's discuss the significance of the right and left hand to palmistry. You probably know that the left side of the brain is our rational, mathematical, language, and reasoning side. From the left side of the brain we see the world in functional ways. This is all reflected in the lines on the palm of the right hand. Your right hand is the sum of all your acquired skills, knowledge and abilities in life. It reflects your experience. It is the doer of our two hands.

The opposite right side of the brain are our image, musical, spatial, and holistic centres that reflect our wonderment, conceptual ideas, and abstract views of the world. Consequently, the lines on the left hand palm show our inborn talents. The left hand palm reflects changes in our aspirations, desires and ambitions. It's the dreamer of our two hands.

The left hand palm is pivotal to any potential change in life. The right hand palm shows the skills we have and the bare reality of today. Thus a skilled palm reading will take account of this Yin and Yang when making any determinations. The left and right hands read together show an integrated self.

Remember this; all your abilities and talents that were innate within you when born show out on your right hand. However without the dreams and aspirations of the left hand, all the skills you possess are useless. The signs of the left hand are necessary to empower the abilities contained in the right hand. That is why some people can overcome challenges very easily because of the power they possess through the right hand with the destiny of the left. However, some with strong right hand skills can overcome the lack of destiny they appear to have with sheer determination in life. You can overcome your lack of destiny and fate.

Usually the lines on your left and right hand are similar. When they are similar your talents and efforts are probably in balance and you are reaping the rewards. If however the lines on both hands are different, your may not be utilizing your right hand talents to their best degrees, and may even be in personal turmoil, that needs to be resolved.

LOOKING AT FATE

Time to turn our attention to fate. Everybody works hard towards achieving a good and happy life. However there will be many unexpected turns in your life's journey. When a person comes up to any of these turning points in life, wisdom is very much required to make the correct choices. Palmistry can indicate when these events may happen to us during our life.

The fate line starts around the middle of the wrist and runs across the hand until the base of the middle finger (see A in the diagram). However this line may not appear clearly with 70-80% of people, or it may actually start from a different place. This is an indication that life is not always predictable.

In examining the fate line, there are six major points to consider.

1. Generally speaking people who have a strongly visible fate line most probably have a good family background and education, and are people who can apply their talents in both daily and career situations.

2. Physical, emotional and mental support from family members and relatives is shown by a line inside the lifeline in the Venus sector of the hand (see B in the diagram). The existence of this line indicates that your fortune will be enhanced by this factor.

3. You are likely to be an independent person who can only rely upon one's own effort if you have a line jutting out from the lifeline (see C in the diagram).

4. The line starting from the Lunar sector of the hand (see D in diagram) indicates that your friends or spouse are likely to play an role in your success. This line also indicates you charisma, an important element in success.

5. If the fate line starts from the wisdom line (see E). In these cases this means that life will be a struggle until into your early 30s. After that point life will dramatically improve and be easier. The distance between the heart line (see F in diagram) and wisdom line (see G in diagram) indicates the turning point in your life. Generally speaking if the gap is wide you may have an early turning point, say around 30 years old, whereas if the gap is narrow you may have a later turning point in life, say around 35 years old.

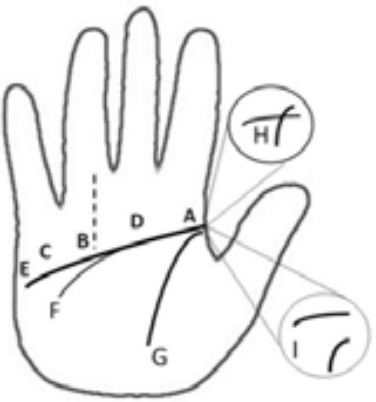
6. The line jutting out from the heart line (see H in diagram) indicates the struggle that you undergo in your life until your mid 50s. However the exact time in life that life gets easier for you is difficult to read from this line as actual timing depends upon other factors like the size of your hand, etc.

Fate lines vary in their consistency. Sometimes the break and the fate line is made of two or more lines that overlap. This can also be another indication of turning points in your life and may indicate that you may face multiple turning points during your life.

The advantage of being able to read your fate line is that it provides you the time to plan for the future. To some extent fate is in your hands and reward and success depends upon the efforts and hard work you put in, and decisions you make at the turning points you face. Please remember if your fate line doesn't look good, that is not crucial to your success. The crucial factor is the effort you put in, and your fate is in both your hands.

LOOKING AT OCCUPATION

Let's have a look at how the palm can indicate to us what type of occupations may be most suitable for us. Our abilities and skills should be carefully matched as closely as possible to our job needs. The closer our skills and job needs are matched, the higher the probability that we will have success in our career. If your skills don't match your job requirements, then any amount of hard work is not likely to lead to success than if your skills matched. This wisdom line on our hand is one of the ways can help us see if our skills match potential job and occupations we are considering.



The standard wisdom line (A) starts at right hand side of our palm running along the middle until about equal to the middle of our ring finger (B). This represents the average person who can harmonize themselves to a general working environment. If the wisdom line is longer than average (C), this tends to indicate that a person is very careful with what they do. If the wisdom line is shorter than average (D) this means that a person tends to be motivated by material rather than spiritual things, and thus tend to be very realistic about prospects. These people may also tend to act on whims, rather than making careful consideration about issues. This can be a strength or weakness. Acting without careful thinking may be very important in an entrepreneurial venture where quick decisions need to be made. However rash decisions could also be unwise decisions, if they are reckless.

If the wisdom line runs almost the total length of the hand (E), those people have better aptitude towards science based occupation like engineering, chemistry, medicine, computing, and architecture, etc. However if the wisdom line curves down like (F), those people may be best suited to occupations based on social science like law, psychology, counseling, or journalism, etc. The steeper the curve the more creative and intuitive these people may tend to be. They could be a creative writer, musician, media producer, or artist, etc.

If the wisdom line starts just above the life line (G), these people will tend to be independent and self motivated, perhaps suited entrepreneurs. If the wisdom line starts below the life line (H), these people may tend to be more anxious about things. In addition the line intersection may also mean that these people may be introverts and prefer jobs that don't come in contact with the general public like a clerk in the back office. In the opposite situation where the wisdom line starts a long way away from the life line, these people are quick decision makers. These people would make good currency, equity and commodity traders, where speculation is required. Finally where the wisdom and life lines are very far apart (I), these are usually very active people. However they may tend to seek power over others and control people. These people are ambitious and usually end up becomes leaders to the organizations they for within. Such occupation would be a company CEO, bureaucrat, or politician.

Generally speaking our lines may actually change over time according to our occupation. People who work in simple clear cut occupations will have a hand with very clear lines, e.g., shop assistant, labour, housemaid, etc. Those with very stressful jobs requiring complex decision making and stress will have very many small lines in the background.

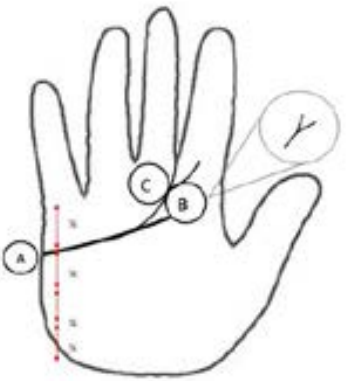
In conclusion, the lines associated with your wisdom line will indicate what you are suited for today, but remember you can always grow into a job, learn and develop your skills as you go along. If after adapting to a new job, you may even notice that the lines on your hand have changed to reflect what you are doing now. The lines on your hand to some extant are adaptive to who you are today and who you will be tomorrow.

PERSONALITY

In this chapter we will look at what we can find out about our personality from the heart line. The heart line is the major indicator of our personality within palmistry. The heart line also indicates love, affection, and care, etc., in our lives, as well as health issues, which I will discuss another time.

The heart line is particularly fascinating because it influences our emotions and occupation which we discussed last week as well. This is why a professional palm reader will not look at a single line to make any conclusion about a person's state or destiny. For example if your life line is short, DON'T PANIC, the heart and wisdom lines also influence the reading of your life line.

The heart line indicates a number of personality typologies.



Starting off our discussion from the standard heart line (A), where the heart line is positioned above or below the standard line has implications about personality. Where a person's heart line exists above the standard heart line shown in the diagram, this person is likely to be an emotionally orientated person. Consequently these people may easily get bored, quickly lose their temper, and stereotype what they see.

Where a person's heart line is below the standard heart line on the diagram, these people tend to think coolly and rationally, without much emotion, and in some cases are calculative in their relations with others.

If the heart line is short and not prominent on the hand a person may be generally cold towards others. This often leads to much self misunderstanding where they themselves see themselves as soft, whereas others see them as cold. Generally speaking the longer the heart line, the warmer a person's disposition may be.

Where the heart line runs across the whole hand, these people will be very affectionate. However, this has a downside where the person may develop high expectations of others, be demanding, and become very jealous. They may have a domineering personality.

Where the heart line is long and curves upward above the standard line to the base of the index finger, these people become very dedicated towards their partners and the ones they love. Generally speaking the longer the line the more they expect reciprocal attention and love from their partners and loved ones. However people with shorter lines will tend to give their love and affection to others without reciprocal expectations.

Where the heart line reaches the base of the index line (B), these people are idealistically affectionate to others. These people rarely tend to get jealous and are more easily able to manage their emotions. These people are compassionate and care about causes in the world larger than themselves.

Where the heart line breaks out into a folk around point (B), these people are straight forward and very empathetic towards others. They will tend to be kind and compassionate towards others and carry on sincere relationships. However these people may very easily become depressed due to their sympathetic disposition towards others.

Where the heart line ends between the index and middle finger, these people tend to be very realistic and stable. They can see above their emotions and act ethically. However females tend to be very definitive about their likes and dislikes about people and things.

Where the heart line splits up towards the middle and index fingers (C), these people tend to be richly affectionate. These people are usually popular with others and have a very positive aura. These people are also happy and content around others.

Where the heart line is short and ends around the bottom of the middle finger, these people are usually very cold and Machiavellian. Their actions don't show their intentions, and they can be very manipulative.

Where the heart line is even shorter than the previous description, these people tend to live on the basic principle in life is that 'the end justifies the needs" and in the extreme are narcissistic individuals.

They are compulsive, chauvinistic, and seek power over others. Many people with this disposition may have sexual, drinking, or gambling problems.

Where the heart line runs along the hand towards and curves in a downward direction at the end, these people are very easily influenced by others and may tend to forget themselves when doing something to help them. These people also tend to be gullible to people's stories. Generally these people have weak characters.

Where the heart line is attached to the wisdom line, these people are over sensitive. In the extreme they can become very depressive and even suicidal.

Where the heart line slops down the hand, these people tend to be introvert and passive. They tend to hold their feelings to themselves and often find it very difficult to express their feelings.

Finally, where people have two heart lines they will tend to be controlled by their libido. These people are extremely social and can be very successful through their networking.

The heart line is an extremely powerful line in palmistry that can indicate a person's personality, and as such may provide a key to their behaviour. Remember again, the lines in our hand are not rigid and therefore the awareness of self the heart line can provide us, may itself assist one to change.

THE LIFE LINE

Time has come to discuss the life line. The life line is one of the most important in palmistry (and most popular) which provides some indication about life and health, particularly our constitution, conditions of health, sickness, and propensity for any accidents, etc. The life line also concerns our life path, which I will discuss next week.

The line on the drawing labeled (A) represents the average life line that one may see on a palm. People with this average line would tend to be both physically and mentally balanced. Where the life line starts above the average line (B) these people would tend to be brave and very decisive in the decisions they make. They tend to have a very positive outlook towards taking on challenges. They may also be physically as well as mentally strong. However on the negative side they may tend to be argumentative with others. If the index finger is well developed in conjunction with this life line, these people will be highly ambitious. This can be either positive or negative. One must be ambitious to succeed, however when one becomes over ambitious, he or she may be reckless and have little concern about others on their way up. When the index finger is not well developed, the opposite may be the case.

Where the life line starts lower than the average life line (C) these people have hopes and aspirations of being better than others but lack the spirit and motivation to do so. If the line thin or weak these people may tend to lack vitality, and will find it very difficult to reach their personal goals and aspirations.

In some rare cases the line may start higher towards the index finger (D). Here these people are very highly ambitious with strong spirit and stamina. They are motivated through their own self actualization rather than external rewards.

The rounding of the life line curve is also very important. If the curve is well rounded, these people will tend to be extroverts. This disposition may be the foundation of their sociability and/or aggressiveness. Generally these people have strong stamina and based on that, their life is longer. A well rounded curve symbolizes energy.

Where the rounding of the life line is flatter, these people may tend to be introverted. They may have a weaker constitution and general lack of energy. Their will may also be lacking which indicates that they may be risk averse and will not look for opportunities to advance themselves. As a consequence through not taking these risks in life, they will tend to lack the success that those that take risks may be able to achieve. There is some evidence through my practice that people with shallow lines tend to be less sensitive to the things around them than others. In addition these people may also have more difficulty in handling stress, which could be considered something like a Type A personality. In males this could be the source of their lack of general empathy and in females this could be the source of problems with their sensual satisfaction.

Most life lines start thick and slowly become narrower along the hand. This is a normal line. Where the line suddenly stops half way along the palm, those people are usually healthy during their life but may have a sudden death due to a heart attack or stroke, etc. Where the line is very thin, these people tend to have a low vitality, but are usually aware of this and look after their health. So ironically people with a weak line may actually live longer than those with a much thicker line.

It is very important when looking at the life line to compare both left and right hands. This is because the left hand shows a genetic disposition of a person and the right hand comes from your environment and lifestyle. For example, if the life line is genetically short on the left and right line is longer, you can overcome this through looking after your health.

Again, as I have been saying during this series on palmistry, being aware of your disposition is half way to change. If you are stressed and insensitive and that affects your enjoyment of life, the lines on your palm can act as a doorway to finding the source of your personal issues that you may want to face. Palmistry is powerful in that it provides you with the knowledge that you may need to change.

THE MARRIAGE LINE

In this chapter we are going to look at what is called the marriage line. The marriage line is physically a very small line, but extremely complex to understand. The meanings we derive from the marriage line tend to be within your own cultural context, and matters of this line are much wider than just marriage, actually relating to passion, love, relationships, and sex, etc.

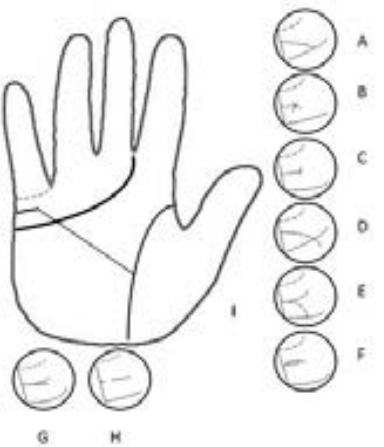
The most difficult thing to read from the marriage line is actually the time within your life that you will marry. The timing of marriage relies upon the interrelationships of the marriage line with the fate and life lines, and even the shape of your hand. All three lines must be read simultaneously. We will discuss this later, as today I will focus upon fortune and love.

The average length of the marriage line is from the upper-mid left hand side of the right hand above the heart line to equal with the middle of your small finger. Such lines relate to a stable and happy marriage. Within such situations it's up to you to make your marriage happy and satisfying. Longer marriage lines imply passion. In the extreme such people will follow their heart and no listen to the advice of others in the partners they choose. At the other extreme a very short marriage line represents fickleness. Relationships are almost always superficial and tend to be short term. It must be said here that the stronger any of the above lines, the more likelihood that the above dispositions will occur within the person.

The closer the marriage line is to the heart line, there is a strong likelihood that you may marry early in life. In contrast, the closer the marriage line is to the base of the small finger, the more likelihood that you may marry much later in life. Again as I said at the beginning of this article, the actual timing of a marriage is culturally determined, where for example westerners may marry late into their 60s, where this trend here in Asia is much rarer.

Now let's have a quick look at six variations of the marriage line.

In diagram A where there are two parallel lines, the potential of a triangular relationship may occur. If the lower line is weak, there will be an intense likelihood of other relationships before marriage. If the above line is weak, there may be likelihood that you may be unfaithful to your partner after marriage.



In diagram B where the two lines are further apart indicates a stable relationship. However if the marriage is an early one, the relationship may end in divorce, and another marriage. If the marriage is later, the marriage may be a very stable one. This may result in a person having a good spouse, good children and few financial worries. Let me state here the number of marriage lines on your hand DOES NOT represent the number of times you will marry. There are many factors to consider here, especially the age you first marry, and this may relate to your own personal maturity at the time of marriage, amongst so many other things. Again here the strength of each line has some importance. A strong lower line means very few issues will arise during marriage, but if the upper line is strong, there could be divorce and remarriage.

In diagram C where there are three lines, such people will be passionate, affectionate, warm hearted, but find fidelity very difficult.

In diagram D where they are many crisis-crossing lines means that you have a tendency to be unfaithful. These people have little control over their passion and lust.

In diagram E where there is a merging of the two marriage lines to become one, you journey to marriage may be difficult with many challenges in the way. However once you have married your relationship should be a very happy one. This will be particularly so if the single merged line is a strong one.

In diagram E where there are many small lines protruding above the marriage line, this person will enjoy strong affection, love and also the material things of life from their marriage. However if lines protrude below the marriage line the marriage may go through very hard times and challenges.

In summary, the marriage line tells us about of interrelationship aspect of our personality. Where our marriage lines indicate potential fickleness, unfaithfulness, and infidelity, the reading our palm gives us the opportunity to become aware of our POTENTIAL shortcomings. If you believe that knowing your personal weaknesses is 50% of the cure, then the marriage line goes a long way in providing an insight into what your future relationships might be like if you don't head the warnings your palm indicate to you.

Here we are going to talk about when a person will marry and then discuss the troubles in marriage.

It's not easy to forecast the exact time from the marriage line only. We have to consider the heart and life line as well. As mentioned last week, the estimating the time that you may marry is culturally influenced. Where the marriage line originates between the heart line and base of the small finger shows a relative time of marriage which must be read according to the cultural norms of your society. For example, western people may be marrying later than Asians, and life expectancies of Westerners and Asians are different. Therefore what is important here is the relative position of the marriage line between the heart line and base of the small finger.

What makes this reading even more difficult is that the demographics in Malaysia in regards to average marrying age and life expectancy is changing as well. Consequently, if the marriage line is in the middle, then you will marry at an average age. Therefore you can make your estimate about marriage age depending upon whether the marriage line is above or below this half-way position.

Now just to complicate things, if your marriage line shows a later marriage than average, but you married early indicates you may not expect a happy married life. You must wait until the indicated age to find happiness in marriage.

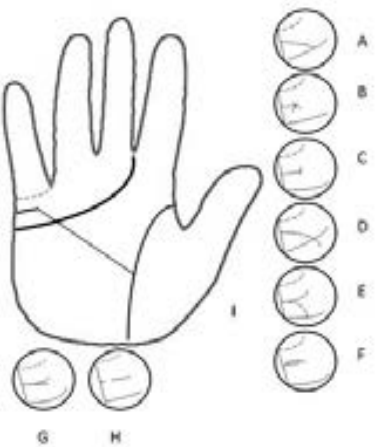
Now to trouble in marriage.

Look at diagrams A and B. These line configurations indicate unhappy married life. This could occur from your spouse's sickness, death, or accident. If your spouse's life line is not smooth, the risk of this is higher.

The configuration in Diagram C indicates a sudden death of a spouse. Please be careful.

The configurations of D, E, and F indicate separation though death or divorce.

Diagrams G and H indicates divorce. However if G is only a small offshoot then this may mean that one of the spouse may have a long working assignment outstation or overseas. However, this separation is not an estranged one, and for the benefit of the marriage.



In the main diagram I, this configuration indicates that external people like parents and in-laws may put stress on the marriage, which may lead to separation.

I must strongly stress here that you cannot really tell accurately your time of marriage, situations and troubles from the marriage line alone. The affairs of the heart and marriage require a reading of the fate, heart, and life line simultaneously with the marriage line. Consequently, don't feel down if the lines on your hand resemble what I have shown you over these last two weeks.

Life is much more complex than a line.

YOUR FINANCIAL SECURITY

"She works hard for the money" - Donna Summer

One of the things we feel most anxious about is our financial security and just as the lyrics of the Donna Summer hit suggest, money is something that is not easy for most of us to come by.

According to the ancient principles of palmistry, there is no such thing as easy money. in fact palmistry cannot tell you directly if money is coming your way. If you want to know that go see an astrologer or get a job. Thus palmistry cannot tell if you are going to win next week's lottery.

Palmistry can only refer to the elements that will enable you to earn a living, i.e., your talents, abilities and motivations. The bottom line are the efforts you make.

In palmistry the simplest way to see whether you have a positive disposition to be financially secure is to just look at the back of your hand.

A person with a big hand is generally a conservative guy or gal, who is usually very careful before making any move. My grandfather's proverb goes something like this..."most people will be careful when crossing a wooden bridge, but the BIG HAND will even be careful when crossing a stone bridge". Consequently people with big hands will be so careful considering all the "ins and outs", going step by step through any issue, they miss a lot of chances to make money. When opportunity knocks, they think about it until the opportunity is gone.

A person with a small hand is generally a bold and daring guy or gal, who are big thinkers. They want to be high flyers and go into things in a big way. They will spare little expense to do what they want, believing in the idiom that 'you have to spend money to make money". These people tend to be risk takers going for a target and if they win, they win big time, however if they lose out, they also lose big time. If and when they win big time, the rewards for their efforts are usually very quickly gone through their spending habits. They might be big earners, but they are just as much big spenders.

The importance of this principle in palmistry is not so much about your own personal fortune, but your success as a partnership. Couples with a one partner with a big hand, and the other partner with a small hand when working together in a business are more likely to be very successful through their synergy. Every challenge, problem and decision they make will be considered with their differing points of view and generally wise decisions made. This relationship also works in a company with a CEO and Finance manager with different size hands.

What is important here is that the synergy of the two people will bring much better financial results than either person could ever achieve by themselves. You can see this principle in practice in many husband/wife business combinations around Malaysia today.

Now let's have a quick look at some other telltale hand features.

Where a person has cone like fingers, particularly common in women, they will tend to be easily bored in their jobs. They find it difficult to work continuously in one job and therefore find it very hard to have a stable career. These people are often big spenders and many end up marrying wealthy husbands. However, their motivation can override this tendency to be bored where they can work within a job successfully.

Where a person's fingers tend to be square, they tend to be precise and cautious. They have an under riding conservatism, don't like to take risks and work consistently. They think long term and are very patient and generally slowly move their way up the corporate ladder. These people may have started off their career as a bottle washer in a restaurant or bank teller and through their persistence end up as the hotel and bank manager at the later part of their careers.

Where a person's finger tips are larger than the rest of the finger, these people generally have lots of ideas, can plan, and have their own way of doing things. These people don't necessarily conform to what others are doing and have lots of energy. These creative people are usually successful with a new venture idea.

Where a person has "boney" fingers, these people are thinkers. However their desire to work hard is low because they see other things as important. The jobs they are motivated to do have little to do with money. These people may make excellent academics and make their money through working in research and development, etc. However many of these people don't get this opportunity and have little success.

As I have been saying in this series, don't look at the size of the hand in isolation, the various lines on your hand also have great influence upon your potential fortune. There are also other signs through the length of fingers, that also provide insights into our personality which we can look at. I will talk more about these next week.

FINANCIAL SECURITY 2

In the last chapter we discussed financial security from the point of view of your talents, abilities, and motivations represented by the size of your hand and shape of your fingers. This week I will add a number of lines and marks that will enrich your reading.

"A" represents the success line which indicates position or status that may also lead to fame. It is also linked to property. A long success line indicates success and fame. However this may not necessarily correlate with money, although it may come later. To the contrary, when the success line is short, you may lack fame, but have money. This line can actually appear and disappear during your life. When it appears, you can be sure that a challenge is in front of you.

"B" is the property line, which indicates your luck with land and property. People with this line have good vision and sensitivity to fluctuations and hence may make good money market analysts or stock brokers.

Usually the "C" and "D" lines are difficult to see. These line configurations are powerful as the put the success, property and fate lines together. In the Shinto tradition this represents being overseen and looked after by the "goddess of luck", giving you a very special knack for creating a large fortune. I must point out that this is extremely rare.

"E" represents a mark like a circle near the nail of the thumb. This is a mark of great patience which will only after a very long period of time result in great success.

If a circle appears on the pointer finger along either the second or third joint "F" this indicates that what you wish for will eventually come true.

A circle around the top of the ring finger "G" indicates that you may have great unexpected success such as your book becoming a best seller, or your restaurant becoming an instant success leading to franchising around the country.

Circles along the middle and base of the ring finger "H" indicate wonderful success in the future where large amounts of money will come. A triangle mark where "I" is located indicate success at business or commerce.

A star mark like "J" indicates you will have a very difficult time initially in your career or business, and success will not occur without putting in some very hard work over a long period of time.

A line along the upper part of the middle joint of your thumb "J" indicates that you will acquire property, without too many problems through any business you are doing.

A straight line "L" along the ring finger indicates great fame, although as mentioned before doesn't necessarily indicate that fortune will accompany the fame.

Line "M" along the small finger may invent or discover something that will lead to great fortune. This may especially relate to engineers and scientists.

Finally, on very rare occasions people have lines running along all their fingers. in this case these people will have a long life with fortune with no financial difficulties.

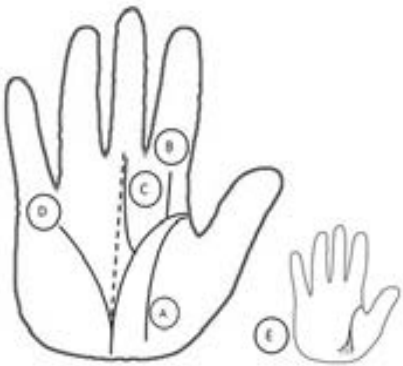
This integrated with the size of hand and shape of your fingers adds more insight into your possible fame and fortune. Next week I will add information from the life line, fate line, and wisdom line to enhance further our reading about financial security.

THE LIFE LINE AND YOUR FINANCIAL DESTINY

In this chapter we are going to take a look at the life line as an indicator of energy required to pursue wealth.

Generally speaking the larger the curve the more energy and motivation one has to pursue wealth. This curve also relates to our sense of self efficacy and power over our own destiny, thus the large curve indicates that one feels confident and energized to pursue what they believe is their financial destiny.

In contrast the smaller curved life line (A) indicates a person has a passive introvert type of personality. In addition this person has humble ambitions and doesn't feel the need to compete with others. Their desire for financial wealth is low.



However if your life line is small but you have vertical lines going up from the life line, your financial rewards will depend upon your effort put in. Then you may be able to develop power, position, and influence within your job, or business you run. And finally money will come.

If you have a line like (B) heading towards your indicator finger, you are able to grab power which will lead to fortune. I would suspect many politicians may have this line.

Of you have a line running parallel to the fate line (C) you may have lots of property coming your way without having to make any major efforts to acquire it. You may become a successful land speculator or even developer with this line.

The (D) line indicates your position will improve during your career very easily. Be prepared to rise up through the organization your work for and of course obtain the financial rewards from regular promotions.

When the life line separates near the wrist to the left with a lot of shadowy lines shooting out (E), these people are curious, but at the same time quickly bored and will move on to new jobs that bring them excitement. These people cannot stay the same place for long and are very likely to work overseas in another country. Their success will come in another country.
